The Himalayan Discoveries is the recently launched research journal of the Society of Himalayan Studies in Finland (SHSF).

The inaugural issue is devoted to the articles presented in the Seventh Nordic Tibet Research Conference, which was organised by the SHSF in collaboration with Helsinki University's Institute of Asian and African Studies and held in Helsinki in 2009. The articles cover a wide range of different subjects, researched by the scholars of different disciplines, such as performing arts, philosophy, history, linguistics, cultural anthropology and literature.

The SHSF was founded in February 2007 by a group of research scholars based in Helsinki, and it soon grew into a full-fledged registered society. Promoting research connected with the Himalayan culture and civilisation is its primary effort. It arranges scholarly events such as seminars, workshops and lectures, as well as other events for scholars, students, and other people interested in Himalayan studies.
